

Castle Lager's AI #TheBackupSquad backs Bafana Bafana, rewards fans

Today, 16 January, Castle Lager, the national beer of Bafana Bafana since 1991, has launched an Afcon campaign with AI, to reward South African fans for the nation's every corner and shot on goal.

Image supplied. , Castle Lager, the national beer of Bafana Bafana, has launched an Afcon campaign with AI, to reward South African fans for the nation's every corner and shot on goal

#TheBackupSquad is a collection of AI designed Bafana Bafana fan archetypes who offer physical rewards to followers who engage via social media, this Afcon.

Castle Lager brand director, Wendy Bedforth says, we all know one of these football audience members.

“From The Bench Warmer to the Sideline Coach, to - most importantly - the Superfan, so we leveraged our AI capabilities to bring these characters to life during the continent's footballing showpiece,” she explains.

“As the official beer of Bafana Bafana since 1991, we are proud of the team and confident that coach Broos and his chargers will make the nation sit up and take notice, based on all the preparation in the build-up to their matches in Ivory Coast,” states Bedforth.

The TVC and AI was done by Draftline and the PR by Retroviral and PR Machine.

“ Ekse, nigrand bafethu? 🎯🎯 This is Moreki, the number one Striker and I'm giving away Castles ezibanda mpo every time @BafanaBafana 🎯🎯🎯🎯 have a shot at goal during #AFCON2023 Comment on our post using #TheBackupSquad and you can find 6 nyana in the DMs. 🎯🎯 📄 pic.twitter.com/kqP05jO6Hf — Castle Lager SA (@CastleLagerSA) January 12, 2024 ”

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>