For the 2024 National and Provincial Elections the national operation centre and nine provincial results operation centres will use a central accreditation system.

Accreditation for all the ROCs is compulsory and must be done online.
<https://evolve.eventoptions.co.za/register/iecmedia2024>.

Applications need to be sent in for all the venues a journalist will be attending. (See below for provincial contact details.)

Accreditation qualifications

To qualify for accreditation, media members will have to provide:

- A headshot photograph.
- A valid media/press card or a signed letter from your station manager/editor on an original letterhead requesting accreditation.

Collection of cards

Please indicate in your application at which venue you will be collecting your accreditation. If media members are collecting in person, they will be required to show proof of identification.

If you are collecting on behalf of others, you will be required to show proof of identification and a letter of authorisation from your manager/editor with the names and ID or passport numbers of the people you are collecting for.

Collection of accreditation cards will take place from 20 May 2024 at the National ROC, Gallagher Convention Centre, 19 Richards Drive, Midrand, Johannesburg.

Voting stations media coverage

Journalists do not need accreditation to cover the elections at voting stations.

They will need a media/press card or a letter from their station manager/editor on an original letterhead confirming employment and their ID or passport.

Access to a voting station is with the approval of the presiding officer of the particular voting station.
