OFM, the sound of your life in Central South Africa, has brought back the popular "Make you a world-famous DJ" competition. The competition was launched for the first time in 2017, and proved to be a huge hit.

Every evening, between 19h00 and 01h00 listeners will have the chance to identify a well-known South African or international DJ with the help of some clues, such as snippets of audio or songs that the DJ has released, or a small biography on the person. Correctly identify the famous DJ and stand a chance to win R65,000 in prizes in partnership with TOMS.

The lucky winner will win sound equipment to the value of R65,000, which includes two Alto TS218 powered subs, two Alto TS215 powered main speakers, one Numark CD Mix USB, two five-inch studio monitors and two on-stage speaker stands.

Says Nick Efstathiou, OFM General Manager: "TOMS is a great partner of OFM and we are privileged to launch this competition with them. Music is our business and DJs are what makes music unique and exciting. We look forward to finding the next world-famous DJ right here in Central South Africa!"
