

Cartier Women's Initiative Awards open for entries

The tenth Cartier Women's Initiative Awards is open for entries from entrepreneurs until 10am (CET) 31 August 2016. This is an entrepreneurship competition for start-ups led by women and organised by Cartier, in partnership with McKinsey and INSEAD business school. It aims to support creative, financially sustainable and responsible women-led start-ups, in all countries and industries. It is looking for women leading an original, for-profit business that is in the start-up phase of between two to three years of operations.

The Award will be given to six laureates who will receive one year of coaching, $20,000 in funding, media visibility and networking opportunities.

To apply, candidates may click here.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>