

Luum Awards selects judges from Africa

The Luum Awards, a global festival that exclusively awards the best creative campaigns for social and environmental issues, has a selection of judges that include executives of creative agencies and directors for communications and marketing for global NGOs.

Judges include:

- Genna Ingold; communications lead, Kofi Annan Foundation Switzerland,
- Laura Durán; press and communications director, Amnesty International Argentina,
- Nicola Rovetta; chief creative officer, MullenLowe Group Italy,
- Joe Godsell; executive partner, TBWA Australia,
- Itziar Badia; marketing director and digital training, WWF Spain,
- Luis Miguel Messianu; CEO, Alma DDB USA,
- Franky Willekens; chief strategy officer, BBDO Belgium,
- Emmanuel Bougneres; creative director, Dentsu International France,
- Pierre Loo; executive creative director, McCann Health China,
- Santiago Cuesta; CCO, VMLY&R USA,
- Michelle Guichard; executive creative director, Ogilvy Colombia.

Luum Awards to reward social and environmental awareness messages in advertising

ò

African judges:

- Aimee Nsimire; communications officer, International Labour Organisation Ivory Coast,
- Samira Rafi; creative director, Boomerang Morocco,
- Teresa Makori; associate creative director, Isobar Kenya.

Agencies like McCann Health China, Geometry, Sancho BBDO, Havas Africa, Lerma USA, and Mindhsare Spain, to name a few, are already enrolled in the first edition of the festival, which aims to set a benchmark for creative campaigns that address social and environmental issues.

Registration closes on 29 September. To register, go here. The awards ceremony will take place on 4 November.

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com