

Fireworkx wins Government of South Australia

The State Government of South Australia has awarded Fireworkx with the task of setting up a web presence for their immigration office. The site will target skilled South Africans and is part of the South Australian government's strategy to double the numbers of migrants settling in South Australia each year.

The soon to launch www.SouthAustralia.co.za website will provide visitors with the critical information needed to understand the different skilled and business visa options and their eligibility to get one.
