

Live streaming masterclasses for African Construction and Totally Concrete Expo

The fifth annual African Construction and Totally Concrete Expo will take place at the Gallagher Convention Centre in Gauteng, 23 -24 May 2017. 45 countries, along with 9,000 qualified buyers and sellers, are expected to participate in the mega construction and infrastructure show.

Africa's largest gathering of built environment professionals returns to Gallagher Estate.

The expo offers a workshop programme and provides free hands-on-technical (HOT) training sessions for the built environment professional. Some of these sessions offer the platform for organisations and individuals to fulfill more than half their annual quota for continuing professional development (CPD) accreditation for architects, engineers, project managers and quantity surveyors.

Indoor/outdoor exhibition

The show caters for the entire built environment with an indoor/outdoor exhibition featuring six new dedicated zones: Concrete and Cement; Mechanical, Electrical and Plumbing (MEP); Surfaces and Finishes; Tools and Equipment; Digital Construction; and Construction.

The show will also feature the AfriSam Contractors' Corner providing live streaming masterclasses for contractors to boost both hard and soft skills covering topics from tendering to waterproofing.

This year the show is co-located with Captains of Construction and Infrastructure Leadership Forum; Digital Construction Expo; Smart Buildings & Infrastructure Africa Summit and Women in Construction Awards.
