Knorr Aromat has tapped Gorilla as their digital agency of choice for 2015.

As one of South Africa's most revered brands, Aromat needed a seasoned team to help them shake things up online. The pitch from Gorilla caught their eye, and the Durban agency will be heading up their digital creative this year.

Aromat marketing has a taste for the memorable, evoking the impossible to forget flavour of their product range and the unbelievable enjoyment the seasoning brings to any meal.

"Aromat is close to South Africa's heart and taking this relationship online is going to be an adventure for both the brand and its friends," commented Jordan Wallace, Gorilla's CEO. "The brief is an exciting one: 'bring as much fun and enjoyment to your screens as Aromat brings to your meal'. We've got some fun ideas on how to do that."

With a directive to shake things up, Aromat is fully embracing digital media as a platform to connect with consumers and build brand love.
