Praesignis is delighted to launch their Cape Town Centre of Excellence Branch in September 2021. This branch opens with a Women-In-Tech cohort, an amazing opportunity providing learners with new cloud computing skills. This initiative is a true manifestation of Praesignis' commitment to build an inclusive and diverse pipeline of new talent into the cloud ecosystem, making the Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR) a reality.

Praesignis launches five cohorts in September 2021, providing new cloud skill opportunities to more than 100 learners across the country and into sub-Saharan Africa. Two of these cohorts focuses on Women-In-Tech. “We are offering virtual and on-premises facilitation by providing skills to unemployed and underemployed individuals with a fundamental technology background and preparing them to launch a cloud career. We provide certifications that are both locally and internationally recognised,” says Tariq Shurmah, Head of Department of Edusignis, a Training Operating Division of the Praesignis Group.

Tariq Shurmah added: “We are equally excited to expand our footprint to go National and into sub-Saharan Africa partnering with other cloud computing training providers.
